Historic town of Idstein

About 10 miles north of Wiesbaden, in the Taunus Mts., lies the historic town of Idstein, which is known for its Hexenturm (Witches' Tower) and its medieval town center with many half-timbered buildings. The Witches' Tower, a 12th-century stone building, is a popular tourist site and can be accessed free of charge. It offers visitors a view of Idstein's old town and the nearby

Großer Feldberg. Even though the center of the town is relatively small, it has a multitude of half-timbered houses, which were mostly built in the 16th century. More info
